Quick team check

Between us we cover a full product cycle.

Capabilities to develop are presentation skills, planning and estimation.

What we can learn from each other is mostly design practice from Tom, backend knowledge from Laurel and Richard and management from Adam.

If one person were unavailable, we would still be able to progress. We will share progress and knowledge, so everything lives on the shared board with an owner and a status with at least one other person who knows it.

Problem areas we brainstormed

We focused on problems unibz students meet around their studies, especially students arriving from abroad. unibz welcomed a record 196 incoming exchange students from 25 countries this winter semester and hosts about 300 a year.

#	Problem area
1	Official steps that depend on each other: tax code (codice fiscale), SIM card, bank account, transport pass and, for non-EU students, the residence permit.
2	Information that arrives too late: what students could have done from home but learn about only in Bolzano.
3	Settling into daily life: finding shops, health care and services in a bilingual city.

#	Problem area
4	Practical knowledge lost between groups: advice lives in WhatsApp and Telegram groups and leaves with each group.

Provisional project direction

A web app that gives incoming students at unibz one clear, ordered overview for their first weeks in Bolzano.

From areas 1 and 2, a checklist that adapts to the student's situation (EU or non-EU, arrival date), with a short step-by-step guide for each official task. Areas 3 and 4 as later candidates, for example a map of useful places or tips from earlier groups.

Current solutions: the unibz exchange guide (PDF), Orientation Day and student groups.
